DETAILED ACTION

1. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 21-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. The use of the material composition is a non-statutory subject matter.

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claim 16 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 16, line 2, the abbreviation "PGMEA" and "PGME" renders claims indefinite. It is not clear from the specification meaning of these abbreviations. Applicants are requested to write these abbreviations in unabbreviated form. Applicants are also requested to amend specification, at first occurrence of these abbreviations without introducing new matter, in unabbreviated form.

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

7. Claims 1-13, 15, 18, 24, and 35-37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Dhal et al (U. S. Patent Application US 2003/0157414 A1).

Dhal et al disclose a composition comprising: a difunctional epoxide monomer, a crosslinker tetrafunctional epoxide monomer, a silicone fluid as binder and a cationic photoinitiator. The difunctional epoxide monomer and the crosslinker tetrafunctional monomers are the same as claimed in the present claims 6 and 10 respectively (Example 4). The silicone fluid is considered as a viscosity reducing non-reactive diluent. Dhal et al disclose cured holographic recording medium between two glass slides. The holographic recording medium is considered as a resist layer.

8. Claims 14, 19 and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Dhal et al (U. S. Patent Application Publication US 2003/0157414 A1).

Dhal et al, which has been discussed above in paragraph 6, fail to disclose claimed ratio of first component, i.e. difunctional epoxide monomer, and crosslinker, i.e. tetrafunctional epoxide monomer, and claimed application methods.

However given the teaching of Dhal et al, a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time of this invention made would have found it obvious to vary ratio depending on desired crosslink density and would have found it obvious to use desired application method for desired coating.

9. Claims 38-40 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 38-40 deemed allowable over the art of record. The art of record does not teach or suggest under coat.

10. Receipt of Information Disclosure Statement filed November 16, 2007 is acknowledged and all recited documents have been made of record. Documents WO 99/26112 and WO 92/12183 are not received. Therefore these documents have been considered to the extent of category shown in the International Search report dated June 29, 2007.

11. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to D. S. Nakarani whose telephone number is (571) 272-1512. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday-Friday.
